

ABSTRACT

To provide a security management device, a security management method, a security management program and a security management system that are
5 capable of ensuring a desired security while scheming to save a labor for the security management by the security management device performing access control of a terminal in accordance with a security level of the terminal and prompting it to do security setting.
10 Whether or not a security level reaches a predetermined level is judged by detecting the security level of a terminal from an access pattern, and, in the case of judging that the security level of the terminal does not reach the predetermined 15 level, an access permission range of the terminal is changed.